Before You Begin Reading...

Is the title interesting? From the title alone, what impressions do you have of the story?

Handwritten response area with a purple dot and horizontal lines.

As you read, please mark any place that you put the story down with a brief description of why you stopped there.

The First Five Pages

- At what point did the story grab you?
- Was the first sentence gripping, or can you suggest an improvement?
- Were the setting and main character clear? Did it grab your attention?
- Were the descriptions vivid and the dialogue believable?
- Did anything in the first pages distract you from the story?

Large lined area for handwritten notes, resembling a notepad with punch holes at the top.

Thank you
